National Student Safety Summit 2009

5th -6th March 2009

New York City

Invitation to Sponsor

Comfori International is the worldwide leader in advancing and improving each and every company, schools, and universities in terms of providing technology, innovation, design, and education, with its primary focus being in North America. In this capacity, National Student Safety Summit becomes the place where leaders, trendsetters, teachers, administrators, and curriculum developers meet to share, learn, and network. We welcome your participation as we help showcase your products and services to these leaders and purchasers of educational tools, equipment, materials, and supplies. Our goal is to give your company and its products maximum exposure to our professionals with significant purchasing power. In addition, you have the opportunity to demonstrate your loyalty and commitment to this growing audience through sponsorship.

Sponsorships make a lasting impression with decision makers, who have the power, influence, and products to increase your potential market. National Student Safety sponsorship programs range from USD 1,885 to USD 7,885. Still another great way to get in touch with our attendees is by advertising in the Summit Program. Consider these additional marketing options as you prepare your budget for next year's conference.

There is growing awareness that students need new skills to succeed in our global economy. In addition to traditional core subjects, students need critical thinking, creativity and collaboration skills. How do we embed these new skills in student's education and how can they be assessed? What role might technology play to enable and support this new learning environment?
